Caddo Lake State Park

245 Park Rd. 2, Karnack | 903.679.3351

Bald cypress draped in Spanish moss, masses of water lilies and hyacinths define the maze of sloughs, bayous and ponds that is Caddo Lake. Caddo Lake State Park affords excellent access to fishing, canoeing and boating. Also popular are the park's quaint cabins, built by the Civilian Conservation Corps in the 1930's. Activities available at the park include hiking, picnicking, nature study, fishing and boating. Canoe rentals are available year round and pontoon boat tours leave from inside the park on Saturday and Sundays March through in November. Pontoon boat tours can be scheduled for other days by calling 903.679.3020.

Caddo Lake National Wildlife Refuge

15600 Hwy. 134, Karnack | 903.679.9144

Home to more than 200 bird species, Caddo Lake National Wildlife Refuge contains more than 7,000 acres of forest lands that shelter a magnificent old growth of hardwood, bottomland forest. Admission to the refuge is free and open to the public seven days a week, year round. The Caddo Lake National Wildlife Refuge visitors center is located behind the refuge administration building.

Caddo Lake

245 Park Rd. 2, Karnack | 903.679.3351

Caddo Lake, a sprawling maze of bayous and sloughs covers nearly 28,000 acres of cypress swamp, in Texas & Louisiana. Teeming with fish and wildlife, it's the lake's startlingly beautiful landscape, cypress trees thickly draped with Spanish moss and masses of water lilies and hyacinths, that brings first-timers and families back year after year. An angler's delight, it contains 71 species of fish and is especially good for crappie, large mouth and white bass. Alligators, raccoons, minks, nutrias and beavers and more than 200 species of birds make nature watching a full-time event.

Lake O' The Pines

Lake O' The Pines is a popular fishing destination brimming with bass, catfish and crappie. The lake, located northwest of Marshall has several full-service marinas, restaurants and shops. The 18,700 acre Army Corps of Engineers lake has numerous recreational opportunities, such as camping, skiing, boating, fishing, hunting, bird and wildlife watching.

REMEMBER

Marshall Cemetery

E. Grand Ave. & N. Lafayette St., N. Columbus St.

Historic Greenwood Cemetery

Herndon Street, near East Texas Baptist University

The entrance to the old Greenwood Cemetery in Marshall is flanked by two stone columns with name plaques. The column on the right has a Texas Historical Marker next to it. The marker notes that the cemetery dates to 1840 and was originally a burial ground for the Van Zandt family. The Van Zandts were an East Texas founding family and Texas patriots. Later the cemetery passed into public ownership and has been used continuously. There are some gravestones of Civil War soldiers, and many others. Greenwood is located on Herndon Street, near East Texas Baptist University.

Scottsville Cemetery

FM 1998 & 2199 5 miles east of Marshall

According to Max Lale, the Scottsville Cemetery is thought to be one of the most beautiful private cemeteries in Texas. Peter and Betty Scott Youree dedicated the stone chapel in 1904 in memory of their only child, William who died at a young age.

Around Marshall

Buard History Trail

This driving tour, named in honor of Rebecca D. Buard, an educator and local historian, profiles an overview of Marshall's history, focusing on important sites in African-American history, such as Wiley College, New Town and the Old Powder Mill Cemetery. The Old Powder Mill Cemetery serves as the resting site for two famous World War II pilots, Tuskegee Airmen. Interpretive markers identify each stop on the Buard History Trail. Pick up the trail guide or educational DVD at the Visitors Center.

Lale Historic Trail

The Lale trail is driving, or partial walking, tour through historic downtown Marshall. It includes buildings designated as Marshall Historic Landmarks, Recorded Texas Historical Markers, and National Register of Historic Places. Pick up the trail guide at the Visitors Center.

Stagecoach Road

5.5 miles northeast of Marshall at Texas 43 and Pine Bluff Road

The historic portion of Stagecoach Road is an eight mile stretch that begins at the end of East Popular St. in Marshall and comes out near Hwy. 43 in Karnack. The old stagecoach route is a narrow dirt road that sometimes sits twelve feet below the tree base levels. Before the Civil War the Marshall-Shreveport Stagecoach line was the main means of transportation between the two towns and provided connections to many surrounding communities. Established in 1850 and operated by William Bradfield and his son John, the Marshall-Shreveport Stagecoach line made three departures weekly from Marshall and continued to do so until its decline in the late 1860s. The decline was due to the arrival of the Texas & Pacific Railroad.

Historic New Town Neighborhood

New Town is a prestigious professional community centered around historic Wiley College. It has been home to many prominent individuals in Texas and U.S. history such as James Farmer, Sr. and James Farmer, Jr., a civil rights activist who helped found the Congress on Racial Equality (CORE) in 1942. Within the neighborhood is Wiley College, the oldest accredited black college west of the Mississippi River. Driving maps are available at the Marshall Visitors Center at 211 N Washington Ave.

Stagecoach Trace

Historical sites throughout Harrison County are highlighted along the Stagecoach Trace driving trail. Prominent sites along the trail include the Andrews-Taylor Plantation, birthplace of "Lady Bird" Johnson, former First Lady. The driving trail boasts 59 different sites such as the T.C. Lindsey General Store in Jonesville, which has been used as a backdrop for several movies and the Scottsville Cemetery, on of the most beautiful cemeteries in Texas and several plantations. Pick up the guide at the Visitors Center.

Learn

Higher education has always played a prominent role in Marshall. In 1842 an all-male institution was established, and in 1844 Sam Houston chartered Marshall University. By the early 1900s, these two institutions were discontinued. In 1872, the Northern Methodist Freedman's Aid Society established Wiley College, a college for African Americans. In 1912, the College of Marshall, a private junior college, was chartered. In 1944 it became a four year institution and was named East Texas Baptist College. It became East Texas Baptist University in 1984. Panola College, a two-year junior college based in Carthage, maintains a campus in Marshall and Texas State Technical College established a campus in 1992.

Marshall, Texas EST. 1841

THE CITY OF MARSHALL is nestled among the towering pine trees of East Texas. Marshall is closely identified with Caddo Lake, a massive body of water located northeast of town. The native inhabitants of this area were members of the Caddo Indian nation.

The city was formally incorporated in 1841 by the Republic of Texas and quickly became a major city in the state because of its position as a gateway to Texas on several major stage coach lines. The city's growing importance was strengthened when Marshall was linked by a telegraph line to New Orleans, becoming the first city in Texas to have a telegraph service.

By 1860, Marshall was one of the largest and wealthiest towns in East Texas with a population estimated at 2,000.
